

Erin Wolf

Erin Wolf is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin State University and the University of Texas at Austin. She served for three years in the Peace Corps in Zambia as a Rural Education Extension Agent and a Volunteer Leader. Her primary responsibility was to assist villages to manage and improve their community schools; she also hosted HIV/AIDS awareness workshops and combated child malnutrition by teaching villagers to incorporate soy protein into their children's diets. As a Volunteer Leader she coordinated the work between staff in Lusaka and field workers in five districts within Northwestern Province and Copperbelt Province, managed a volunteer transit house and provincial office, and managed a revolving interest account as an official US government sub-cashier.

Erin has experience in Zambia, Botswana, Malawi, Tanzania, Mozambique, Namibia, South Africa, Uganda, and Egypt. In addition to English, she is fluent in Ibibemba. Erin is the International Risk Analyst with the International Office of the University of Texas at Austin.
